

Suicide Safety Plan

Adapted from the Suicide Prevention Resource Center

www.sprc.org

This plan is a step-by-step guide to help you stay safe during suicidal crises. It includes:

- Early warning signs
- Personal reasons to stay alive
- Tools to manage mood and distress
- People to reach out to
- Safe places to go
- Crisis and emergency contacts

Each section includes 1–3 focused options for you to fill in to keep it usable in moments of distress.

When you're familiar with the plan, you can remove this guidance page and just keep the essentials.

1. Early Warning Signs

List early signs: thoughts, feelings, physical symptoms or situations which indicate things are getting worse.

Examples: withdrawing from others, sleeplessness, hopeless thoughts, specific triggers.

	sons to Stay Alive
	n what matters to you: people, goals, values, memories, pets, future plans. too small or too trivial.
Examples	s: my family member, my writing, sunset, the next series of my favourite show
• –
• –
-
3. Mod	od Support & Distraction
These ide	and the second section of the section of the second section of the second section is a second section.
have to do that's fine
have to do that's fine	them all—choose what feels possible. If you'd rather talk to someone right have to do that's fine	them all—choose what feels possible. If you'd rather talk to someone right too.
have to do that's fine	them all—choose what feels possible. If you'd rather talk to someone right too.
have to do that's fine	them all—choose what feels possible. If you'd rather talk to someone right too.
have to do that's fine To calm	them all—choose what feels possible. If you'd rather talk to someone right too.
have to do that's fine To calm	them all—choose what feels possible. If you'd rather talk to someone right too. your mood (if agitated):
have to do that's fine To calm	them all—choose what feels possible. If you'd rather talk to someone right too. your mood (if agitated):
have to do that's fine To calm	them all—choose what feels possible. If you'd rather talk to someone right too. your mood (if agitated): our mood:
have to do that's fine To calm	them all—choose what feels possible. If you'd rather talk to someone right too. your mood (if agitated): our mood:

4. Supportive People

Reach out to someone who helps you feel grounded or understood.

Trusted people you can call or message quickly:
•
•
•
Mental health professionals or support workers:
•
•
•
5. Safe Places
Go to a place where you feel safer, more connected, or calmer.
Places to be around others (in-person or virtual):
•
•
•
Places with a calm environment for emotional reset:
•
•
•
6. Crisis Resources
Use these if nothing else is helping, or you feel you may be at risk.
Emergency contacts (e.g., 999, A&E):
_

Crisis I	ines or text/chat	services
(Including	g the Samaritans 1161	123, and Shout;	text SHOUT to 8	5258):
• _
• –

Final Note

Keep this plan somewhere easy to reach—by your bed, near your front door, or in a drawer you use often.

You are not alone. Suicidal thoughts will pass. Support is always available.